TULI JOERNAAL 2013

In early June 2012 I had the privilege of travelling with Alwyn Marx to the Rautenbachs' Annual Production Sale at Reitz. Because of the distance we went up the day before the sale so we could sleep at Albie Rautenbach's farm "Avoca".

During the roughly six-hour trip, I had an ideal opportunity to gain more information about the Tuli breed, and some amusing lighter moments from Harm junior.

Over supper that evening, it was interesting to hear Alwyn and Albie speaking about the different bloodlines and types, and the influence different bulls and cows had had upon the development of the breed leading to what it is today. Before retiring Albie suggested we rise early so he could take us around the farm to see his cattle before breakfast. It was good to see so many Tuli females – about 300 – together in one group and have him point out animals which had been good performers, or weaker ones which did not perform well. I was astounded at his knowledge of the history of the individual cows. Harm junior was quick off the mark to say to Albie: "Oom, kan ek daardie koei koop?" i.e the weakest one!!

We were also taken to a large group of bulls which included animals from weaners to mature stud sires.

My general impression of the Reitz area is that it is undulating, highland grassland – veld which is nutritious even in winter, plus crop residues that can be utilised, thus giving a high carrying capacity.

The well-known high fertility of the cows and bulls on offer, meant that the animals sold briskly. For me, it was good exposure to the breed and breeders alike.

Young as he is, little Harm is vitally interested in Tulis and was so proud of his Dad's purchase – "My Pa het die duurste koei gekoop!"

As we travelled back after the sale, Alwyn contacted Jannie de Villiers to see if it would be convenient for him to show us his Tulis. Jannie farms outside Senekal. It was wintertime and daylight was fading but we managed to see the bulls before darkness fell. Then it was a case of viewing his females by spotlight as we drove across the veld. The condition of his animals was most impressive, because of the highly nutritive grazing in the area plus a good protein lick. As Jannie lives in town, we then went on to see the few cattle he runs on the commonage, which are treated the same as the ones on the farm, and were in equally good condition.

It was encouraging to see what can be achieved if one starts with good genetics and applies sound management, as Jannie has done as a part-time farmer.

Alwyn was very generous with sharing his expertise and his own experiences.

Visit to Johan van Rijswijk – early July 2012

Johan very kindly bid on 2 young Tuli cows with heifer calves for me at a dispersal sale in Steynsburg in mid-June, and he was prepared to take them to his farm in the Burgersdorp district and graze them for me for three months. In early July I managed to visit him and see the cows. I so enjoyed driving around his farm and viewing the different groups of Tulis, while he spoke in detail about the breed he so dearly loves. Johan is very knowledgeable, and can be a great help to a new breeder. His integrity stands out clearly. It was interesting to hear how he has been able to push up his farm's carrying capacity because of the grazing strategy he has applied.

At the end of September, in order that I might attend the Midlands Tuli Sale in Cradock, I visited P.W. and Barbara Michau in the Mortimer area. My impression of the Cradock area was that it was fairly flat, so I was quite surprised to discover that their farm is situated high in the mountains, an hour's drive from town. The higher we climbed the more difference I observed in the veld: more grass and less Karoo bush. In the evening we attended a function in Cradock, meeting other breeders and listening to their conversation, which was a useful introduction to them, who constitute a friendly and helpful fraternity.

At the sale I was able to buy 2 bulls and some females. Not being sure I'd get the bull I was after, I first bid on my second choice and should have stopped, but an elderly gentleman behind me kept tapping me on the shoulder to keep me bidding!! I thought that was it, being very relieved that I had at least got a bull.

When my first choice came up, I got it for the price I had been advised to go to, much to my surprise and gratification, being congratulated by Alwyn and P.W.

Chris Hobson had invited me to spend the night at their farm in the Kendrew area of Graaff-Reinet. Early next morning Chris took me to see his calving cows and bulls. I was most impressed with how docile his animals are. This district suffered a four-year long drought so it was good to see the recovery that was taking place and Chris's enthusiasm for his cattle.

Later we proceeded to Murraysburg for that sale.

I spent the night at Ed Clark's at Bird's River near Dordrecht, where I saw some of the Clark's cows-in-calf and some stud sires. We then went to Ed's father, Russell's, farm for lunch and a quick look at their string of bulls being prepared for their sale. I was particularly impressed with bulls sired by 'Buffel'.

And so - back home at last.

Courtesy visit by P.W. and Barbara in early October.

The animals we acquired at the Midlands Sale were delivered by the Michaus to our farm in the Ugie district. They spent a good few hours looking at our different Tulis and giving valuable input, and they encouraged us that the progeny we have so far bred has the potential to develop well and that progress should be evident soon.

Alwyn Marx' Sale. The animals presented well, genetic quality and breeding being obvious. After that, over-nighting again at Ed Clark's, I saw newly born calves being weighed.

Jonathan Brown and Johan van Rijswijk

The sale at Russel Clark's afforded another opportunity to buy 2 females with calves.

In conclusion: I benefited greatly by getting to know some Breeders better, enjoying their generous hospitality and input, realising that I have lots to learn, and only wishing I had started years ago!
